Message from the President ,

The Cree Outfitting and Tourism Association (COTA) and Eeyou Istchee Tourism (EIT) are pleased to share our new Cree Tourism Strategy and Action Plan 2020-2025. We would like to thank all of the community members, businesses and organizations who contributed to the planning process. Our community workshops and key informant interviews helped shape the strategy and, in the future, they will be used to enhance the implementation phase and our overall global positioning. We hope that you will be pleased with the final product and I am confident that it will guide our work of creating a sustainable tourism destination in Eeyou Istchee that will benefit our communities and the generations to come.

As you know, the organizations have different and yet complementary mandates that result in more benefits and services for our members.

COTA's mission is to develop and implement a collective vision for a world-class sustainable tourism industry in Eeyou Istchee that is in harmony with Cree culture and values and that involves a partnership with Cree communities, institutions, and businesses. The organization plays a vital role in structuring global Cree tourism development and works to implement Sections 28.4 and 28.6 of the JBNQA to:

- Provide marketing, booking, and promotion services, where necessary, for Cree outfitting operations.
- Provide business, management, accounting and professional services, where necessary, for Cree outfitters and tourist businesses.
- Conduct feasibility studies related to the establishment of individual outfitting or tourism facilities or a network of outfitting or tourism facilities.

EIT is the Regional Tourism Association (RTA) for Eeyou Istchee and serves the Cree tourism businesses and organizations. EIT's role focuses on marketing the region and the tourism operators, supporting the development of the tourism offering, improving the availability of tourism information, and coordinating with other RTAs to help shape and optimize the province 's tourism policy.

This new strategy proposes an inclusive approach that involves land users, local communities and regional stakeholders. Innovation, distinction and the highlighting of our vibrant Cree culture are the key elements used to develop the 2020-2025 action plan.

Thank you and we are looking forward to work with you in the months to come,
Meegwetch,

Titus Shecapio

President COTA and EIT

Context and Main Objectives

According to a recent Indigenous Tourism Association of Canada study, the country's Aboriginal tourism sector is growing quickly. From 2014 to 2017, its GDP rose from $1.4 billion to $1.7 billion, a 23.2% increase¹. Eeyou Istchee Baie-James (EIBJ) is certainly well-positioned to benefit from this promising trend.

Into the North, a web series launched in 2018, has already provided potential visitors with a privileged and appealing view of the region's vibrant Cree communities and its exceptionally diverse landscapes.

The region has its own dedicated travel agency, Eeyou Istchee Baie-James Travel (EIBJT), which operates in partnership with multiple tourism industry players. There is a great opportunity to position EIBJ as Quebec's most accessible Nordic region. The allure of authentic Aboriginal experiences combined with a one-of-a-kind natural surroundings has already enabled the development of distinctive flagship products such as Creetopia and Wiinipaakw Tours. In response to the Covid-19 pandemic, the whole Eeyou Istchee territory was closed to visitors.

The reopening of borders is expected between 2022 and 2023, which limits international travel. There will be an opportunity to test world-class tourism products and packages by targeting tourism customers in Quebec and the rest of Canada. Accordingly, these products will be ready for launch on international markets whenever overseas travel resumes.

New travel trends, including slow travel, learning tourism, and sustainable tourism, are compatible with Cree values and traditions. We must now create welcoming reception services and related infrastructure² to ensure that visitors to Eeyou Istchee enjoy unforgettable experiences.

Context and Main Objectives

The mandate entrusted to the BESIDE team was to provide support in developing a 5-year tourism strategy & action plan, for the period from 2020 to 2025. We worked in close collaboration with COTA and EIT to propose a distinctive tourism strategy and positioning designed to ensure sustainable development in all 9 Cree communities and the region's production system as a whole.

Eeyou Istchee is a vast and ancient land alive with vibrant Cree traditions, culture, and language. It is a region largely accessible by road. It was a privilege to participate in drafting a plan for its tourism offer and economic development.

The initiative's two chief objectives are:

- The sustainable development and management of the region to ensure its longevity and benefits to the members of the community as well as the development of a distinctive Cree tourism destination. Participation by and mobilization of the region's major players was a key component of our approach.
- Pilot-project and implementation support. An action plan was drafted to develop fieldwork management skills among community members whose work will include tourism operations and maintenance as well as infrastructure and region-wide safety.

An Inclusive and Participatory Approach

Meetings with main stakeholders Spring and summer 2019 on the road

Full-day workshops with all nine communities, COTA board and CNYC board

Participation at COTA's AGM and Creetopia launch in Chisasibi

Many work sessions with industry partners and stakeholders:
Tourisme Baie-James, Huttoopia, Wiinipaakw Tours Solidarity Cooperative, Nibiischii Corporation, EIBJT, Cree Trappers Association, Centre d'Études collégiales à Chibougamau, ARF, AEQ, FPQ, and TAQ

Multiple work sessions with COTA

SWOT Analysis

OPPORTUNITIES

External:

Increased market demand for Indigenous tourism ¹

COVID-19 disruption has created an unprecedented, industry-wide opportunity for Indigenous tourism and cultural experiences

Visitors seeking slow tourism and sustainable destinations

Increasing environmental-footprint concerns among travellers

Internal:

Enhancing our green path and sustainability as a destination

Implementation of carbon-offset cost activities

Implementation of flagship products such as Creetopia micro-sites and boat tours around cultural heritage interpretation

Development of distinctive cross-cultural turnkey packages involving Cree, Inuit, and Jamesian communities

Extensive arts and crafts production and traditional activities (workshops and events)

Development of winter tourism potential

Development of a Cree culinary showcase

Extension and possible paving of runways to accommodate larger aircraft

Communications and promotions to bolster new offers

Fam tours for international outreach

THREATS

Every flight's high environmental footprint

High cost of air fare

Short tourism seasons

Bugs and poor weather

COVID-19 in the short term

Strategic Goals and Vision

- 1 Create three tourism hubs – Inland, Southern Coastal, and Northern Coastal – to facilitate mobility throughout the region, help promote distinctive offers, and entice visitors to return for repeat visits.
- 2 Foster Cree and Jamesian collaboration by implementing a global strategy for tourism experiences and lodging in EIBJ, including inciting the Cree Nation and Jamesian communities to co-develop a UNESCO Network Global Geopark.
- 3 Position Creetopia sites and Wiinipaakw boat tours as flagship products.
- 4 Promote tourism services and activities revolving around traditional way of life and arts and crafts.
- 5 Create a master plan to improve access to the region and between communities.

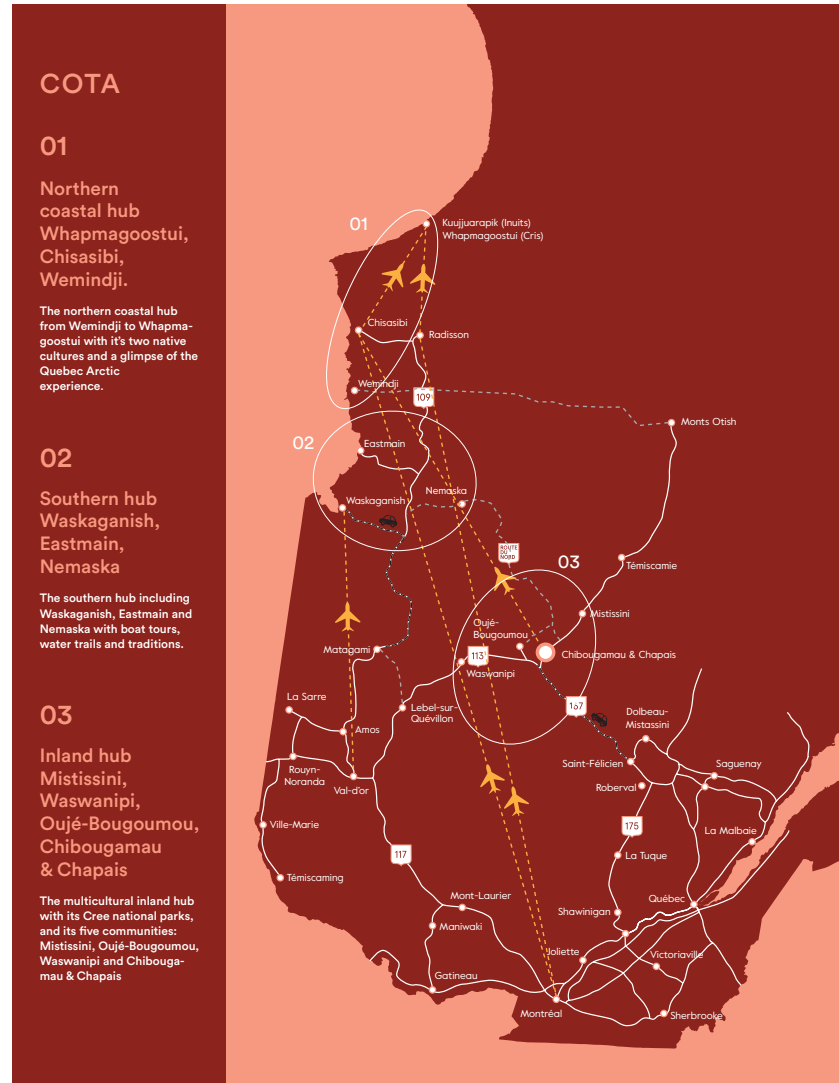

01. Three Tourism Hubs

Dividing the region of EIBJ into three distinct tourism hubs allows us to position the destination more effectively, with each hub featuring its specific set of tourism experiences, including attractions, history, and diverse communities and cultures.

The goal is to enable tourists to distinguish between the hubs and incite them to return to the region to discover a new hub. As a result, repeat visitors gain a much fuller appreciation of the various communities' cultural, historical, and geographical attributes and their warmth and hospitality.

In addition, it is much easier and more pleasant for visitors to make travel arrangements in EIBJ on the basis of “manageable” tourism hubs than to view the destination as a long – and possibly too long – road trip.

02. Cree and Jamesian collaboration by implementing a global strategy for tourism experiences and accommodations in EIBJ through the creation of a UNESCO Network Global Geopark

Regional collaborative work involving Tourisme Baie-James, Eeyou Istchee Tourism, and industry stakeholders is required to ensure that product, package, and lodging development be undertaken in a sound manner and will target a high level of quality, thereby providing visitors with a great welcome and a great experience that will WOW them.

Providing support to a comprehensive regional strategy to obtain accreditation as part of the global UNESCO Geoparks network would result in outstanding international visibility and benefit the region by showcasing its two distinct populations, its unique geomorphological characteristics, and its stunningly beautiful natural environment.

A geo-site would be developed in proximity to each community, with each site featuring its specific properties of scientific interest, its distinctive history, and the community elders' body of knowledge.

These geo-sites would be linked by a geo-route whose architectural signature would bring out the best lookouts (offering dazzling sunrises and sunsets), singular locations, and more.

Earth science and environmental science graduate and post-graduate students would be invited to conduct end-of-study internships at the various geo-sites and initiate partnerships with community elders.

As a result, the two future Assinica and Nibiischii Cree National Parks will be able to enhance their geo-science offers and geo-sites as part of efforts to join the future geo-route.

03. Position Creetopia sites and related high-end accommodations as flagship products and facilitate the development of exclusive packages and authentic experiences for international customers and Quebec tourists who seek exotic journeys and wish to explore Aboriginal cultures. Eeyou Istchee is the gateway to Northern Quebec and is a destination that inspires fascination among potential visitors.

Each site would have specific spaces for cooking, sharing meals, storytelling, sharing knowledge, and a broad variety of workshops. Experience-generating features would be identical from one site to another to ensure the high quality required by visitors. Site selection and development as well as the products on offer would help create distinctive experiences for visitors.

Wiinipaakw boat tours may be yet another flagship product to be showcased in tourist packages. The islands, their history, their marine fauna and flora, and the accompanying cultural interpretation activities focusing on artefacts would all add up to a fascinating experience for visitors from abroad. A boat excursion on James Bay is a spectacular experience. Boat captains would work closely with sea-kayak rental operators and with guides to ensure safe and appealing excursions. In addition, they would optimize their tourism offer by providing visitors with access to certain facilities on the islands.
